

If the USPS Eliminates Saturday Mail Delivery...

The Postal Service Would Fall Apart

If Congress approves the USPS plan to end Saturday mail delivery:

■ Your service would be at risk.

Millions of Americans depend on Saturday delivery to receive prescriptions, checks, newspaper and magazine subscriptions, greeting cards, and notices from churches and community organizations.

■ High-priced couriers would step in – but only in the most profitable locations. Customers would pay more – a lot more.

■ The USPS would be weakened – perhaps fatally. The Postal Service's ability to serve every American at an inexpensive, uniform rate would be compromised. Privatization could soon follow.

The loss of a national, public postal system would be bad news for our country and our financial system:

The USPS is a powerful engine in the nation's economy that operates a vast network, enabling citizens, businesses and government to communicate quickly and inexpensively.

Save Saturday Service!
