Dear Mr. Barnett:

On July 11, 1986, we met to discuss the above-captioned grievance at the fourth step of our contractual grievance procedure.

The issue in this grievance is whether the use of individual disks in the CFS unit violated the National Agreement.

During our discussion, we mutually agreed to settle this case as follows:

The Postal Service has not established any work or time standards in the CFS units. The use of individual system disks are not for disciplinary purposes.

The parties at this level agree that management may use individual disks for quality control purposes as long as disciplinary action is not based thereon. Work and/or time standards are established at the national level.

Please sign and return the enclosed copy of this letter as your acknowledgment of agreement to settle this case.

Sincerely,

Muriel A. Aikens

Dear Mr. Barnett:

On September 27, 1985, we met to discuss the above-captioned grievance at the fourth step of our contractual grievance procedure.

The issue in this grievance is whether management violated the National Agreement by requiring CFS employees to clock-out for a change in operation.

During our discussion, we mutually agreed that there is no violation of the National Agreement by having these employees clock on and off different operations within the Central Markup Unit.

Please sign and return the enclosed copy of this letter as your acknowledgment of agreement to close this case.

Time limits were extended by mutual consent.

Sincerely,

Barbara Lerch
