Tell the Senate: Save Our Postal Service NOW!

On June 23, postal workers and our supporters will join collective actions across the country to demand Congress save the Postal Service.

Together with our allies in the labor movement and other community organizations, an APWU caravan in Washington, DC will deliver over petition signatures of postal customers demanding Congress pass the emergency relief the Postal Service needs. APWU locals and state organizations are planning events across the country in support of the petition's demands.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, mail volume has dropped dramatically and the Postal Service could run out of money this year, threatening our jobs and the vital service we provide the country.

The House of Representatives recently passed $25 billion in emergency COVID-related funding for the Postal Service in its latest stimulus bill (the HEROES Act), a bill which also included hazard pay for postal workers and removed conditions on a $10 billion line of credit in a previous stimulus bill.

We must continue making our voices heard as the Senate deliberates on their own stimulus legislation.

Senators need to keep hearing from the people they represent about the role the Postal Service is playing during this crisis and its ongoing value to the American people. While the people are firmly on our side we must continue to build support in the Senate to ensure postal funding is included in the next stimulus.

Support our demands in Congress, join an event and spread the message! Tell your Senators that any stimulus legislation must at least include an emergency $25 billion appropriation for lost revenue due to COVID-19.

Contact your local or state union to see if they are organizing an event, or check apwu.org to sign up to receive information on how to participate in the day of action! You can also sign up by texting CARAVAN to 91990.
